POLICY IN BRIEF

THE NATIONAL POLICY ON THE HEALTH AND DEVELOPMENT OF ADOLESCENTS AND YOUNG PEOPLE IN NIGERIA (2007)

Summary of Sections that Most Apply to Reproductive, Maternal, Newborn, Child, and Adolescent Health:

POLICY OVERVIEW

Young people constitute about a third of Nigeria’s population, and face considerable health and development challenges, which include high rates of unwanted pregnancy, unsafe abortion, HIV/AIDS and other sexually transmitted infections, substance abuse, nutritional problems, and violence. The National Policy on the Health and Development of Adolescent and Young People in Nigeria, approved in 2007, seeks to promote the optimal health and development of young people between the ages of 10 and 24 in Nigeria. The key areas of intervention of this policy are sexual and reproductive health and rights, nutrition, accidents and violence, mental health, substance abuse, education, career and employment, spirituality, social adjustment and parental responsibilities.

POLICY OBJECTIVES

The policy’s key objectives include to:

- Encourage advocacy efforts for increased political will and resource allocation for young people’s health and development programs and interventions. Enhance the technical capacity, interventions, collaboration and coordination for the promotion of the health and development of young people
- Increase the access of young people to quality information, education, and youth friendly services
- Promote the meaningful participation of young people, families, communities, and institutions on youth issues

POLICY TARGETS

The following targets were intended to be achieved by 2015:

- Reduce the maternal mortality ratio among young females by 75%
- Integrate family life and HIV/AIDS education into the curricula of all primary and secondary schools
- Achieve universal access of young people to basic education through junior secondary school
- Eliminate gender disparity in educational attainment among young people
- Eliminate female genital cutting/mutilation
- Reduce the proportion of young people with nutritional problems by 75%
- Reduce the incidence of substance abuse among young people by 75%
- Halt and begin to reverse the spread of HIV/AIDS among young people

POLICY IMPLEMENTATION: ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

The implementation of youth policy interventions is meant to occur at the three levels of government in accordance with the constitutional provision of health, and in line with the delegated responsibilities to each level of government in the National Health Act (2014). Due emphasis should be paid to interventions at the grassroots, targeting individuals, families, and communities with faith-based organizations and other civil society organizations, as well as to the private sector as an active partner.

While responsibility for the implementation of the policy is primarily that of the Nigerian government and peoples, the support and partnership of the donor community and other international development partners is also critical to achieving the objectives of the policy. Young people are also meant to actively and meaningfully participate in all aspects of policy implementation, including planning, resource mobilization, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of relevant programmes.
The policy defines the following key roles for institutions charged with implementation:

Role of the Health Sector
- Develop programs and services for adolescents and other young people, coordinate inter-sectoral health activities, and monitor and evaluate the policy implementation process. The Federal Ministry of Health provides overall strategic support for the implementation of this policy while the State Ministries of Health (SMOH) provides leadership for the implementation of this policy.
- Integrate adolescent and youth-friendly services into primary health care, primary schools, social welfare and all other relevant activities within the purview of Local Government Area authorities.

Role of Other Sectors
- The Ministry of Education should intensify efforts to achieve universal basic education and eliminate illiteracy, expand integration of Family Life and HIV/AIDS Education (FLHE), and scale-up of teacher training.
- The Ministry of Women’s Affairs will promote awareness of young people’s health and development issues among families, with a focus on women, at various levels.
- The Ministry of Youth Development shall establish and manage youth centers with relevant adolescent/youth–friendly services such as counselling to meet the needs of in and out of school adolescents and other young people.
- The Legislature should support implementation of the policy and advocates for the health and development of young people.
- The sectoral plans in government agencies should reflect relevant aspects of the policy as it relates to their mandates. Non-government sectors are also required to reflect relevant aspects of the policy in their programmes and plans.

POLICY IMPLEMENTATION MONITORING
Monitoring and evaluation constitute a major element of the policy. Government agencies are meant to monitor activities in the sector within their mandate, and according to the appropriate tier of government as indicated in the National Health Act and other policy guidelines. Government agencies and other partners are expected to submit quarterly reports to the Adolescent Representative Health Desk of the Gender Adolescent, School Health and Elderly Division under the Department of Family Health, Federal Ministry of Health, which serves as the secretariat of the National Adolescent Health and Development Working Group (NAHDWG).
